UNDERSTANDING HEARING LOSS

Approximately 36 million Americans suffer from hearing loss. Noise is the No. 1 cause of hearing loss. With the incidence of noise induced hearing loss occurring at younger and younger ages, it is important to know how and when to protect your hearing. Wearing hearing protection when you're exposed to sounds louder than 85 decibels for a long period of time can help protect your hearing.

MAKES A GREAT GIFT

IPOD

Hear with unrivaled clarity and crispness and protect your priceless hearing. The custom fit provides great noise suppression from your surroundings, meaning you'll no longer need to turn up the volume to block it out.

FIREARMS

Designed for hunting and other high-level impact noise environments, this full-shell earpiece features a valve that instantaneously closes once a certain noise level is reached for your hearing protection.

BLUETOOTH

Quality sound, comfort and security are the hallmarks of a custom-molded Bluetooth earpiece. Increase caller volume and block more ambient noise.

NOISE PROTECTION

Even short term exposure to loud noise can permanently damage your hearing. Reduce the danger from working and playing in noisy environments.

SWIMMER

The custom ear mold for swimmers was originally designed for use while surface swimming or showering to prevent moisture from entering the ear canal. It's also a superb sound reducer with a noise reduction rating of 27 decibels.

PILOT

The classic Pilot Earpiece provides custom-fit comfort. Features an easily adjustable bar for placement of the boom microphone just where it is needed.

MUSICIAN

Enjoy unequalled sound quality, response and reliability with the fit and comfort that only custom-molded earpieces can provide. Eliminate feedback, lower onstage noise levels and reduce vocal fatigue.

BROADCASTER

This skeleton style communications earpiece is most commonly used with a teleprompter in broadcasting or by law enforcement personnel in the field. Can also be ordered with smaller style earpieces or straight tubing.
